Head Like a Kite (Wednesday)

Go Fly One

Semi-schizo convo inside rock-crit's brain: Head Like a Kite's riffs and vocals take audible cues from the Joy Division/New Order school. Well, yeah—they and like a million other hip bands, right? Granted. But then HLaK takes all that and throws in electronic hiccups and sound samples. Their Random Portraits of the Home Movie (Pattern Records) sounds like they made a contempo indie rock album and gave it to a good DJ to do surgery on it. Ahh, sounds like a gimmick. No, but...it works! Well, look. How are the songs? Yeah, that's the thing. The songs are really good—catchy, smart, never boring. So like, we're going to this show? Yeah, both of us, maaaaaaaan! Cafe Nine, 250 State St. 9pm. $3. 789-8281, cafe-nine.com.
